PARIS, May 15.—In their mightiest surge of the war, the Germans have crossed the Meuse river at Sedan, but a fierce French counter-attack has bottled up the drive in a six-kilometer pocket, a French military spokesman announced today.

The push across the Meuse was one of many which the Germans had futilely attempted, the spokesman said.

North of Dinant, they also crossed the river in two or three places, he added.

Greatest Battle

The "greatest battle of history" has now mushroomed along the entire sprawling length of the two main fronts, he said.

The first front is in the region of Namur extending to the junction of the Meuse and Chiers rivers, and the second battle rages from the Chiers through Sedan, below Luxembourg.

The crossings at Dinant were not

Collapse Of Dutch Resistance Is Blow To Belgian Defense

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 15.—Collapse of Dutch resistance against the invading Germans was conceded today to be a severe blow to the Allies which may complicate their position in Belgium.

Although the capitulation of most of Holland did not come as a surprise, in view of the Dutch government's flight to London, the British public took a gloomy view of the situation.

London newspapers made no attempt to conceal the severity of the blow, stating the task of the Allies in Belgium is now extremely difficult.

Allied forces in Belgium, it was admitted, may be compelled to withdraw to prepared positions.

Britain Warned

At the same time the British nation was warned of the possibility of an onslaught directly against the British Isles.

President Now Has Enough Delegates To Insure Nomination

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 15.—President Roosevelt goes over the top today for a third term nomination as the New Deal gives him a clear majority of pledged delegates to the coming Democratic convention.

By nightfall, there will be a total of 565 delegates elected to the Chicago convention with instructions to vote for Mr. Roosevelt's renomination. This will be 14 more than the 551 required for a nomination.

President Silent

The president meanwhile continues his sphinx-like silence about the third term issue. His intimates now say Mr. Roosevelt will continue his silence until the Democrats actually assemble and possibly until after he is tendered a renomination. They contend that Hitler's

PARIS, May 15.—One-fourth of the Dutch army was killed and the entire Netherlands bombing airforce was wiped out before Holland gave up the battle in the northern regions, Dutch Foreign Minister Dr. E. N. Van Kleffens told the press late today.

The Dutch foreign minister did not state exactly how many men Holland had thrown into the field. However, reliable estimates placed the total at 500,000 men. If the entire armed force was employed in an effort to stem the Nazis, Van

LONDON, May 15—The Dutch government-in-exile announced that Holland is still at war with Germany despite the surrender of all but troops in Zeeland Province. Believe Italy About Ready To Enter War

American Diplomatic Circles Hold Belief That Mussolini May Plunge

DEMOSTRATIONS ARE INSPIRED

Italy Will Enter If Hitler Appears Likely To Win Is General Forecast

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 15.—A belief that Italy is preparing very soon to enter the European war on Germany's side was strongly held today in Washington official and diplomatic quarters.

In view of a hope that "eleventh-hour" efforts of American diplomacy might yet prevent a spread of war to the Mediterranean officials were extremely restrained in their public statements. Privately they were pessimistic.

Seeks To Keep Italy Out

Ambassador William Phillips in Rome was reported to be in constant and close touch with the Italian government. For the past two weeks he has tried through every means consistent with his position as a neutral diplomat to demonstrate to the Duce's government the advantages of remaining at peace.

Adolf Hitler's smashing success in his northern "Blitzkrieg" however, is understood to have weighed heavily on Il Duce's mind. Mussolini is regarded in Washington circles as frankly opportunistic, ready to plunge in on Germany's side once he is convinced that he is backing a winner and that Italy, sharing in the spoils of victory, may add coveted Tunisia, a part of French Somaliland and perhaps the French provinces of Nice and Savoy to the "new roman empire."

Half Million May Be Dead

(International News Service)

The startling possibility that as many as 500,000 soldiers may have been killed was advanced by military observers today.

In Paris Dr. E. N. Van Kleffens, Dutch foreign minister, told newspapermen that one-quarter of Holland's army was killed in five days. While he did not reveal the total forces Holland had thrown into battle, if her army of an estimated 500,000 took part, Holland's casualties alone might total 125,000.

If a similar ratio of killings occurred elsewhere, as compared to the total German and Allied manpower engaged, it was considered possible, appalling as it may seem, that half a million soldiers might have died during the past six days.

These conjectures were based on Van Kleffens statement as the only yardstick by which to measure possible total casualties to date.

BRITISH DENY WARSHIP SUNK

(International News Service)

LONDON, May 15—Refuting German claims, the British admiralty late today denied any British warships had been sunk or seriously damaged off the Belgo-Dutch coast.

The admiralty stated:

"No British warship has been sunk, set afire or seriously damaged since the German invasion of the low countries, with the exception of the submarine Seal (reported lost several days ago.)

"No mishap has befallen any British transport or supply ship during the Netherlands campaign."

Berlin had claimed that two cruisers, a destroyer, a 25,000-ton transport and other Allied vessels had been sunk, set afire or badly damaged by German air bombs off the Belgium and Dutch coasts.

Belgians Now Entrenched In New Positions

Resistance Stiffens And Slows Up German Drive At Liege And Louvain

FALL OF BRUSSELS APPEARS LIKELY

Belgian Units Again Fight Brilliantly As Did The Legions Of 1914

(International News Service)

BRUSSELS, May 15.—Entrenched behind new positions, Belgian soldiers are now in line with Allied troops and stiffened resistance is damming the advancing waves of German attacks in the Liege and Louvain sectors, it was officially announced today.

The fall of Brussels, however, appeared more imminent than ever. But regardless of what happens, it was announced, the American embassy will remain in the Belgian capital, and the Pierlot government is not yet prepared to flee.

Take New Positions

The retreat to new positions was announced in the official Belgian communique which reported the withdrawal was made in "good order" and "according to the operations plan."

Premier Hubert Pierlot himself, in a message of encouragement to the Belgian people, announced the stiff resistance around Liege and Louvain.

Between Louvain and Wavre, the Allies have dug into new positions along the Dyle river, directly east of Brussels. The new line was established following their withdrawal from the Gette river, 33 miles east of the capital.

Resisted Vigorously

The latest Belgian communique gave this account of the fighting:

"During the night of May 13-14, Belgian forces conducted themselves in good order and without losses to new positions where they organized defense according to the operations plan.

"The Namur front resisted vigorously the violent attacks or mechanized troops who were aided by aerial bombardment.

"Our aviation executed successfully many reconnaissance flights ahead of our positions Tuesday.

"During Monday, Belgian motorized units fought brilliantly in the Gette region as did those who distinguished themselves there in 1914."

The Nazis were said to be especially anxious to seize the diamonds to bolster German finances and also for industrial uses.

It was possible that the president's special message on the subject would go forward today, more probable that it would be submitted tomorrow. The chief executive's aides doubted if he would have the important document ready today.

LONDON, May 15. — German motorized troops arrived at The Hague today with a high German officer who immediately sent for German Ambassador Von Collenberg-Bodighen, exchange telegraph reported.

The officer's first move on his arrival, the dispatch quoting the Dutch radio said, was to dispatch an aide-de-camp to the hotel of the German emissary.

FRONTAL ATTACK BEING PLANNED

Gigantic Push From Area Of Antwerp By Nazis Is Now Anticipated

By PIERRE J. HUSS

BERLIN, May 15.—With the northwestern extension of the Maginot line already pierced by fast-moving German troops, every indication pointed today to the fact that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler has revived on a grand-scale the famous old Von Schlieffen plan for encirclement of Paris.

Already assured of complete success in Holland and now in possession of bases only thirty minutes away from aerial objectives in England, the Fuehrer is turning full attention to the western front.

(Editor's Note: Responsible military sources in London and Paris admitted that the Germans had entered certain "defense zones" south of Sedan and the Meuse but insisted there was no question of the Maginot line having been broken or turned. At best, it was said in London, the Germans have made a

Special Session Near Conclusion

Likely To End On Thursday

Turnpike Extension Bill Likely To Be Held Over To Next Session

RELIEF MEASURES WILL BE APPROVED

By RAYMOND BRANDT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, May 15 — The special session of the Legislature neared its close today as the famous relief program was placed in line for Senate passage this afternoon and final enactment and adjournment also its tomorrow.

All indications were that the turnpike measure, calling for the construction of a two-million extension to Philadelphia of the Pittsburgh to Harrisburg superhighway, would be defeated today, but that all other administration measures would pass.

Six Measures Amended

As six of the administration bills were amended in the Senate, the House will have to concur when it reconvenes tomorrow before they can be sent to the executive for his signature. The remaining 10 bills will need only the signatures of the presiding officers of the House and Senate since they are approved by the upper chamber, then they also will be ready for the governor's approval.

Bills in line for final Senate approval today include the $71,000,000 relief appropriation, transfer of $21,000,000 from special state funds to finance relief, appropriation of $1,000,000 for financially handicapped schools and creation of the unemployment compensation board.

Adams Not Confirmed

Other action to be taken today included the confirmation of numerous executive appointments, but not that of Motor Police Commissioner Frank D. Adams, who failed of confirmation at the 1939 session due to Democratic opposition.

The Republicans may attempt to secure the confirmation, however, of John D. Hall, secretary of banks, whom the Democrats also turned thumbs down on Dec. 31 because Hall, of Philadelphia, informed the Republicans that he and two fellow Democrats from Philadelphia, Anthony J. DiSilvestro and Israel Stiefel, would vote for Hall despite previous adverse action by the Democratic caucus.

Since confirmation requires a two-thirds vote, or 34, and the Republicans control but 27 votes the support of seven Democrats is needed to confirm. Confirmation of Superintendent of Public Instruction Francis B. Haas was unanimously approved last night.

Turnpike Defeat Seen

Defeat of the turnpike measure was indicated when numerous Republicans joined with Democrats to vote that the measure be dropped from the calendar. Although the motion failed, Majority Floor Leader G. Mason Owlett, Hogan said "I don't think the bill will pass."

Chief objection to the bill centered in the lack of a provision assuring farmers whose farms would be traversed by the new highway of adequate compensation. In place of the turnpike bill the Senate was expected to adopt two resolutions, one introduced by Sen. Evans Kephart, Philadelphia, and the other to be presented by Sen. James H. Sutton directing the highway department to survey and present to the next legislature a plan to extend the superhighway from Harrisburg to Philadelphia and from there, west Pittsburgh to the Ohio state line.

The Senate adopted a Sutton amendment calling for the extension of the turnpike from there to the Ohio state line, a subject admittedly not within the governor's call. Sutton said he would withdraw his amendment today and substitute his resolution instead.

Of the six bills amended by the Senate, the most important change was that made to the unemployment compensation laws which had been earlier amended by the House to exempt taxes on salaries above $3,000 a year. The Senate amendments would also permit private pension systems and thus bring the state laws into complete conformity with the federal law. The other amendments were largely minor.

fort to break through Allied positions and achieve a quick decision in the entire European war.

In response to War Secretary Anthony Eden's call for volunteers to patrol the countryside against a possible invasion of German parachute troops, police stations throughout the nation were inundated by applicants, particularly ex-service men.

The rush of Britons eager to have a crack at Nazi parachutists should they attempt to land in England was so great that they exceeded the facilities of officials to list them.

Confidence Displayed

While utmost confidence was displayed in the competence of the Anglo-French command and the ability of British and French troops to meet the German thrust in France, the nation's French counterpart was read eagerly as soon as it was issued.

Meanwhile, appointment of Lord Beaverbrook as minister of aircraft production in Prime Minister Winston Churchill's government was hailed and British interest prevailed over gossip of a possible attack by German parachute troops were pressed forward tonight.

A war office communique issued shortly after midnight stated:

"Forces of the British expedition are being proceeded according to plan and contact with the enemy was maintained throughout the day."

Seek Quick Decision

The feeling that Britain may be the next main object of German attack was implied in a statement by the ministry of information which said yesterday's operations in Flanders have gone much according to expectations.

"The operations now in progress," it added, "make it clear that the enemy is about to put forth a supreme effort to break through the Allied positions and achieve a quick decision."

The battle is now being joined to it is impossible at the present stage to give a precise description of the situation as it exists. The Allied troops are in good heart.

The statement followed by only a few hours the radio report by War Secretary Anthony Eden to Britain and Hitler that the task of defending the whole British country is shared against landings of German parachute troops.

dent in the fortified zone running from the Luxembourg frontier to the sea.

For Frontal Attack

On the basis of responsible and expert calculations in Berlin, it is becoming more evident that with every move on the western front the Fuehrer is pivoting the whole offensive on a frontal engagement with the allies, while sweeping down from the north with the aim of encircling their left wing.

Responsible quarters therefore anticipate a gigantic push from Antwerp shortly along the Belgian-French coast down toward Amiens and Le Havre to get behind Paris.

The Von Schlieffen plan of world war days outlined exactly such a move and failed in 1914 only because the army corps in northern Belgium designed to overturn the allied left wing and sweep around Paris was withdrawn to stave off a French counter-attack on the Marne.

This frustrated the whole purpose of the German move through Belgium at that time.

But this time no army corps is lacking, a spokesman said. We have all the forces that are considered necessary to carry out the Schlieffen plan requirements plus the best air force in the world.

German sources claim that from a practical standpoint the Maginot line is already broken. It no longer holds terror for the German army, it was said, especially in view of our new weapon.

Two Potentialities

Two potentialities now appear likely, on the basis of official reports and German press comments:

1. The likelihood of a grand-scale air attack in the near future with the German press using such headlines as Dutch Capitulate, the War is Now at England's gates.

2. England, under the guidance of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, will attempt to extend the war to the Balkans militarily and economically without loss of time.

All German newspapers carried maps showing the proximity of important English bases to Dutch coastal towns now held by the Germans.

Supported by dive bombers and fighting planes, actually advancing unchecked into lands that were thrown to France's outer fortifications, it was said, successfully beat the back French counter-attacks and inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

French forces have suffered reverses to the German onslaught, it was said today heavily in men and material.

The high command also announced important new German successes at Namur and Liege in battered Belgium.

German troops have captured two forts at Namur, an official announcement stated.

Fighting Men

The same announcement added that the Germans also captured Fort Fourchon at Liege and stormed the adjoining fort Pontisse, most formidable by heavy artillery batteries.

Thus the German army before Namur struck a lightning blow into the allied flank before hurling the armies between Antwerp and Namur, both along the Meuse line into France where they will be able to cope in grips with the enemy at last force.

Moving rapidly into attacking position along a front under the personal command of Chancellor Adolf Hitler with the general staff in direction of operations, the Germans smashed forward rapidly in the Namur region.

Supported by warplanes and tanks they captured two first forts at Namur with a speed greater than even German authorities had anticipated.

By doing so, Berlin authorities said the Germans effected a dangerous breach in the allied right flank.

The break through at Namur makes possible complete encirclement of Germany's favorite military target, the formation of a great pincer based at Namur on the south and Antwerp on the north, with each jaw speeding toward the center behind the allied positions.

Act in New Castle

It has been reported by competent military authorities that the reason behind Russia's failure in the air has been the poor training of her pilots rather than inferior planes.

Strouss-Hirshberg Co. Employes Are Honored

The Strouss-Hirshberg "store family" here last night saluted a group of employes who have been in the service of the store since its opening 10 years ago.

Gathered in the clubhouse at Sylvan Heights golf course, the firm's local personnel enjoyed dinner and evening-long entertainment furnished by a party headlined by Amil Lelenko, popular New Castle performer.

Around the table where sat the 10 honored guests— the 10-year workers—were leading Youngstown executives of the concern, President Clarence J. Strouss, Vice President and General Superintendent George V. Thompson and Divisional Merchandise Manager Arthur Einstein. The local store executives sat with them.

President Strouss, always present for the annual parties, praised the loyalty of the veteran employes and called upon the store staff to rededicate itself to the three cardinal principles of the Strouss-Hirshberg organization—dependability, service and courtesy.

Other speakers were Jerold S. Meyer, manager of the store, Vice President Thompson and Mr. Einstein.

Awards for a recent sales contest were presented by John O. Huston, executive here.

The night's toastmaster was Gerald Morris. Mr. Huston led the pep singing with Miss Jean Haug as the pianist.

Handling arrangements for the annual party was a capable committee composed of Miss Ina C. Simon, Miss Gladys Thompson and Mrs. Sarah McWilliams.

Honored during the evening were the following 10-year employes: Mary Fulkerson, Ora Muse, Mary Agnes Eagan, Mary Harvard, Marie St. Clair, Helen Waldorf, Martha Owens, Hazel M. Donehue, Minor P. Mann and Mr. Meyer, store manager.

While Strouss-Hirshberg's unit here now marks its 10th year, the company—here and in Youngstown—recently celebrated its 65th anniversary.

NOW FEELING WAR'S FULL FURY

HOLLAND and Belgium have known for months that they were doomed to become fields of battle. From day to day there was the hope that this fate might be deferred a little while longer, but a valiant Queen and a gallant young King and their brave people have realized virtually from the beginning that ultimately they must fight to survive.

It is a tragic circumstance that Belgium must for a second time within a quarter of a century feel the weight of an invader's iron heel, that its people must die, see their homes reduced to ashes and their fields churned with steel and soaked with blood. And it is equally tragic that this same ordeal was brought to the peaceful little land of Holland, throughout its modern history a symbol of industry and order.

But these are among the traditional sorrows of war. Those who least deserve the anguish are required to suffer most. From Norway, equally innocent, the scene shifts to the low countries, where the Allies swiftly assemble from England and France to help meet the thrust and stem the invasion's tide. Now, after nearly nine months, there is at last the "complete" war which from the first has been envisioned, a war which means the involvement of many nations, the merciless utilization of all instruments of destruction, an unrestricted war in which men die on the fields of battle, unprotected cities and villages are bombed, women, children and the aged are starved and misery reigns supreme.

This is the fully ripened fruit of totalitarianism.

A VETERAN TROUPER RETIRES: AGE 11

Shirley Temple's retirement from the movies with her first million and more in the bank, at the ripe old age of eleven, is quite in keeping with a fairy-tale career as amazing as anything she ever portrayed on the screen.

The little lady blessed with a captivating smile and shrewd parents has been a sensation for years in one of the toughest competitive fields in the world. For four years she ruled the Nation's box offices in the motion picture industry. Last year she was topped only by Clark Gable and Tyrone Power as the premier attractions.

Her retirement is explained on two counts, the difficulty in finding scripts to suit her new "growing-up" phase and her parents' desire that she lead a more normal life. Other child stars have not been so fortunate in parental recognition of these two factors. They have been deprived of the companionship of other youngsters, have been forced to stick to the role of child actor regardless of advancing years and unsuitable plays, and have ended their careers finally as tuckered-out adolescents.

Mr. and Mrs. Temple apparently wish to avoid the mistakes made by other guardians of movie infant prodigies, and movie-goers who have been so well entertained by their daughter will approve their judgment. The spell of cinema magic is strong, and it is unlikely that a veteran trouper like Shirley will stay away from the klieg lights for long.

DARK DAYS

There are times when it seems that it is the destiny of the human race to destroy itself. Hundreds of years of progress on occasion appear to be swept aside by forces representing a deliberate intention to wreck civilization. Sometimes these powers of evil are frankly anarchistic; again they exemplify a certain negative logic which at first glance is plausible in character. Those who set them in motion will argue that a better world cannot be achieved until the existing world has been demolished or it may be their choice to insist that for the advantage of one community all others should suffer.

Plato, it will be remembered, required slaves for his ideal republic. His citizens were to have servitors. Thus a "leisure class" would be created and maintained at the expense of men and women who should be living sacrifices to the comfort of their masters. That such a social order would be unstable did not occur to its author. He counted upon subservience which should continue indefinitely. Small wonder then that his Utopia remains what it was in the beginning—an idle dream, and unworthy aspiration.

So, too, there is something ephemeral in policies of conquest. Napoleon Bonaparte visioned a federated Europe, and he sought to achieve that end by the destruction of the independent neighbors of France. For a while he prospered, yet, as the historian looks back upon his career, it was finished before it was begun. Louis XIV and Frederick the Great had made the same mistake. They had sought to build empires with their swords and they had been encouraged in their ambitions by the ease with which their successes were won. But the maps they drew in blood and flames fell to pieces when their backs were turned. Like the Corsican who strove to excel them they failed because they did not take into account the natural spirit of the human species.

Perhaps it was thousands of centuries ago that the race first learned to resist the impulse to commit suicide. Certainly, the instinct to survive is very old. It also happens to be immortally dynamic. Under hostile conditions the inhabitants of this earth do not surrender. Rather, they rise from their degradation. The whole chronicle of man's experience may be cited to prove the point. Again and again there have been dark days, days when millions despaired. Yet the planet still followed the sun, the stars in the heavens still shone, and at last the timid hopes of humble, inoffensive people were justified.

TWELVE MONTHS WITHOUT A LYNCHING

The record of a year without a lynching is one of which the South may be proud. It would be interesting to know just what factors contributed to such a strengthening of respect for the law.

Undoubtedly the lynching evil was fostered to a considerable extent by fear that despicable criminals would escape punishment, but the chief factor was the mob spirit.

Education has played its part, together with such organizations as the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching and the interracial committees for promoting tolerance and mutual forebearing.

Every attempt to obtain enactment of a federal anti-lynching law has ended in failure. This proposed legislation sought to curb the evil by imposing heavy penalties on public officials who refused or neglected to protect prisoners or other suspected persons from mob violence.

This twelvemonth showing encourages the hope that lynching may be stamped out by the force of aroused public opinion, thus permanently ending a national disgrace.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MORE RACKETERERS

One of the most natural and laudable impulses is the desire of young men and women to improve themselves educationally and thereby better themselves economically. To supplement public school training thousands join adult educational groups, attend night school, or take correspondence courses. The tragic thing is that many unscrupulous persons are not above taking advantage of this craving for knowledge.

Some of the correspondence schools have a high rating. But there are others, unfortunately the majority, which prey on hopes and ambitions by offering little or nothing of value in return for hard-earned dollars. The National Home Study Council, established in 1925 through a Carnegie Corporation grant, has made a survey of the correspondence school field and found four hundred eighty such organizations operating in the United States. After careful study the council discovered that it could approve only forty-seven of this number.

Glittering promises of better jobs, of easily acquired skills, of quickly learned arts in writing, painting and music, are luring many young men and women into squandering their money futilely. Not until they have signed the contract do they realize what they have been let in for.

Before signing any contract with a correspondence school, no matter how plausible the prospectus may sound, a young man or woman should consult the school principal or the employer, if any. Most Chambers of Commerce are provided with information obtained by the National Home Study Council.

Much heartache and some cash can be saved by taking this precaution; for it is better to choose an organization that has the approval of this nation-wide research body than to wake up and find that one is stuck with an obligation which offers little in return. Such foresight not only will protect the individual but also will help those correspondence schools which are doing a fine job and deserve support.

Editor
New Castle News,
New Castle, Pa.
Dear Sir:

The International Institute of the Y. W. C. A. which met on May 9, 1940, wishes to thank you for the editorial which appeared in the New Castle News on April 27, 1940, under the title of "Guidance for New Citizens."

The Wickersham Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement, after careful investigation and extensive research, cleared the foreign born of the stigma of a high rate of criminality.

The report of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the year 1939, once more refutes the charge that alien criminals constitute a heavy burden on the American Community and are largely responsible for the high crime rate of this country.

As you know, the International Institute of the Y. W. C. A. since October 1923, has also been helping hundreds of foreign born to fill out difficult naturalization applications and to become good citizens through fellowship with our American born Y. W. C. A. members. As far as we know they have made fine American citizens who appreciate their new opportunities as much if not more than the native Americans.

Sincerely yours,
ETHEL D. MOORE,
Secretary, International Institute Committee, Y. W. C. A.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

LIFE'S BEST

If I knew anything better than these,
Laughing children and gardens gay;
Ownership in a few tall trees,
I'd counsel seeking it night and day.

If I thought fame better than peace of mind
And fortune better than self-respect,
I'd tell my children to leave behind
All but the dollars they might collect.

If I knew anything better to gain
Than a cheery fire when the north wind blows
And a sheltering roof against snow and rain
And friends to call at the long day's close.

I'd name it oft to my children small
And their wills to win it I'd try to rouse,
But friends and faith and a few trees tall
Stand first in the gains which the Lord allows.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:10. Sun rises tomorrow 4:42.

Women are beginning to wear hairpins about a foot long again. They are doing this to protect themselves against thugs. Those things are about as good as a sword, but hard on the eyes of those who want to get near the gals.

Lies cause more talk than the truth.

It is claimed that when a man marries a woman older than himself she cannot keep from bossing him. Many a man has been made better by having some woman boss him, no matter if she was older or younger than he was.

One gets used to being called "Mr." so gradually that he hardly realizes he is growing old.

THE LAZY MAN'S DREAM

I wish I was on a mountain high
A-peepin' through a sunny glade
With all the bills I have to pay, paid!

I wish I was on the sandy beach
A-watchin' the tides foamy topped
With all the wood I have to chop Chopped!

I wish I was beside the house

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

I am constantly deluged with letters from women who are active in organizations wherein they have, evidently, accepted executive positions requiring them to deliver an occasional speech. They plead with me to write their speeches for them. "Oh, what shall I say at our next club meeting at which we will have a visitor whom I must welcome" is a typical request. Naturally not being familiar with the club activities, the people involved, I am unable to be of much help, for such talks should not be stereotyped. My only possible advice is: decline the offer of executive positions if you are unable to fulfill the duties pertaining to them. If you lack the poise to stand up among a roomful of people and say a few words, do not accept offices involving speech-making. Try, like Demosthenes, the greatest of all Greek orators, to overcome shyness of speech by practicing when you are alone. Read aloud. Join one of the many organizations that will develop in you in "10 easy lessons" the art of public speaking. But upon discovery that you lack the knack of doing such things, let someone better equipped have the job. Even Arnold Bennett, the brilliant English writer, refused to make speeches. Once when he was called on to say a few words, so I read, he took his fountain pen out of his pocket, held it up and said: "This does my talking," and sat down. General Grant's presidential campaign speeches totaled 25 words. So, it is no disgrace to admit that you are not gifted with oratory.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: Please give me instructions in your column as to how to teach my maid to serve dinner.—Mrs. B.

Answer: After the table is set have your maid fill the water goblets just before the guests are called in to dinner. When the guests are seated, she should bring each item of food in separately—including the meat, if it has been carved in the kitchen—and then the vegetables. Serving dishes should be held on a folded napkin in the waitress' left hand. Her right hand will then be free to steady the dish while guests help themselves to the contents. She should first serve from the left side the woman guest of honor (seated to the right of the host). Service should then proceedto the left, although it may be reversed at every other serving so that the same person will not each time be helped last. Although food is served from the left, plates are removed the right of each guest. Butter is replenished from the left. Water goblets are replenished from the right. Your maid should, of course, wait until all have finished a course before removing dishes and serving the next course.

What's What At A Glance

J. Edgar Hoover Irks Senator Norris
Attack Embarrassing To Administration
Given Clean Bill Of Health By Jackson

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Columnist)

When Senator Geroge W. Norris goes after a scalp the prospective scalpee might about as well order a wig without any further argument. For all of his 78 years the old Nebraskan is absolutely tireless and equally remorseless if he thinks the victim he seeks deserves what's coming to him. He also has it in him to be almighty scathing. Besides, he's so completely honest that nobody ever questions the excellence of his motives. Sometimes somebody may hint that he's slightly mistaken, but it never is so much as intimated that he doesn't think he's 100 per cent right.

Consequently it's a serious embarrassment to the administration to have him on the trail of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the justice department's bureau of investigation.

The senator accused Hoover and his underlings of "practices tending toward the destruction of human liberty in the United States." He described the FBI as a kind of OGPU or GESTAPO and referred to its methods as comparable to Stalin's, Hitler's or Mussolini's.

The FBI has been uncomplimentarily mentioned before, but not a great deal of attention has been paid to these earlier criticisms. Senator Norris, however, was promptly listened to. This was partly because it was Senator Norris who was doing the talking and partly because his remarks were a lot more vitriolic than anything previous.

Clean Bill Of Health

In short, Attorney General Robert Jackson, as Hoover's justice department superior, considered it necessary to look into the Nebraskan's charges. He ordered an inquiry by Chief Henry Schweinhaut of the department's civil liberties unit. Schweinhaut gave Hoover and his outfit a clean bill of health and Jackson indorsed it, trusting, as he expressed it, that the senator would see he's been in error.

Evidently he wasn't very well acquainted with George W. Norris. The elderly Nebraskan took a few days to get his vocabulary in first-rate working order and then, on the senate floor, told, for three hours and thirty minutes, his opinion of what he called the Hoover "whitewash."

He not only denounced Hoover. He ridiculed him. He laughed at him as "the greatest publicity hound in the western hemisphere." He asserted likewise that J. Edgar gets his personal publicity at public expense.

All this was rough stuff for Hoover. But what's more, it was rough on Attorney General Jackson. The senator declared himself "pained to learn that our justice departmental head deems the FBI's doings proper in a supposedly free country."

He demanded a further investigation. It's a demand which puts the whole administration on the spot more or less. It surely must hate to concede that a finding approved by its attorney general was so much of a "whitewash" that another, real one, must follow it. Yet if it ignores the senator, it's a cinch that he'll keep the subject alive everlastingly. He'll make speeches about it during the coming campaign. He'll raise hades. It's his custom.

He'll Be Listened To

And he'll get attention paid to him.

He's an advanced liberal. Liberals hearken to him respectfully. Labor swears by him. Farmers think he's wonderful.

On the opposite hand, conservatives will be overjoyed to have such a spokesman playing the mischief with a system that a New Deal cabinet member has put his "O. K." on.

On top of all that, Senator Norris, "per se," is a formidable orator.

From the New Deal standpoint, the worst of it is that he's been an enthusiastic New Dealer. He isn't a Democrat. He used to be a Republican. He was elected last time as an Independent. Nevertheless, he's plugged for the New Deal as few New Dealers have.

Now—

To have that kind of a senator accusing the New Deal of harboring an OGPU or a GESTAPO?—just at this juncture, when the conservatives are arguing that the New Deal essentially is totalitarian? Murder!

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

by The Baltimore Sun (Copyright, 1940)

War And The Third Term

Washington, May 15.

IN these exciting days the so-called "inner-circle" politics" has taken on a slightly ghoulish tinge. It is not a secret that the third-term movement managed by the jobholding strategists unquestionably is enhanced by the violence of the war and the German successes. Either immediate peace or an Allied victory would be a setback to the whole third-term idea.

THIS is not in the least to accuse Mr. Roosevelt of not sincerely wanting peace or of not being strongly pro-Ally. He does and he is. It is merely to present a statement of fact plain enough to every politician and actually put into print by naive reflectors of inner-circle sentiment. Certainly it is grimly ironic that this effort to provide a third term for this President, who so eloquently deplores war and denounces the aggressors, should depend upon a continuation of the war and the advance of the aggressors.

YET if there were no war there would be no third-term movement. Few will dispute that. Last year when the movement was inaugurated it fell exceedingly flat. Only the outbreak of the war and the consequent overshadowing of all domestic issues made it possible to revive it. Its backbone today is the slogan that we should not "swap horses while crossing a stream." On the defensive as to practically every domestic issue, with the Federal finances in an incredibly confused and appalling state, with unemployment still high and neither business nor agriculture flourishing, it is perfectly clear that the whole third-term bet hinges upon the tremendous intensification of the war. Beyond question, the Holland and Belgium invasion, following the Norway-Denmark conquest, plays into the third-termers' hands. Their argument is that the more completely domestic issues are obscured by the foreign situation, the less resistance will there be to the third term in the campaign. The total war, which now has come, seems to them to insure success for their drive.

PERHAPS they are right. At any rate, their journalistic reflectors are responsible for the sotry that very soon a group of the inner-circle managers will call on Mr. Roosevelt to inform him that he has been "drafted." The idea is that he is to be told that, with the final defeat of Mr. Garner in California, the primaries are over and he is sure to be renominated by acclamation. This, it will be urged upon him, is so direct a call from the people that he must put aside his personal desires and again "make the sacrifice." Two other things are to be stressed—one, that he is the only man who can win; the other, that he is the only man capable of steering the country at this critical time.

THERE is doubt that any such phony performance will be staged, though so set are his intimates upon his running, and so sure they can put anything over that it is not impossible some such effort to dramatize "the case" before the convention may be made. However, if it is, there are some things which it is quite certain will not be pointed out to Mr. Roosevelt, though they would seem important for him to consider. One of these is that this nomination by acclamation, if he acquiesces, represents no call from the people. On the contrary, it will have been secured by the machinations of the pay-rollers and the politicians, with whom he has actively connived. So clearly will it be the result of Federal machine weight that no protense of spontaneity could be maintained, and talk of a "draft" is ridiculous. Coolidge could have been "drafted" just as easily had he played the same game.

ANOTHER thing which will not be told Mr. Roosevelt is that without exception every primary in which he has participated this year has shown a great shrinkage in his vote over 1936. In Illinois, for example, he ran 300,000 behind his 1936 record; in Nebraska, he trailed Dewey; in Wisconsin, Garner got 30 per cent of the Democratic vote. In California, although the Democratic registration is about two and a half times the Republican, the Roosevelt vote of 750,000 exceeded the Republican and Garner vote, which is unshakably anti-Roosevelt, by a very small margin. In Pennsylvania Mr. Roosevelt ran 200,000 votes behind the Senatorial candidates.

ALL of which means, if it means anything, that while Mr. Roosevelt is still the dominant figure in the party, able to crush all primary opposition, his vote-getting ability since 1936 has greatly diminished. Another thing which will not be stressed by the managers is that in two recent Gallup polls Mr. Cordell Hull has shown up stronger as a candidate than Mr. Roosevelt, and in the most recent one almost as strong as Mr. Roosevelt against Mr. Dewey. This seems to nullify the claim that Mr Roosevelt is the "only man who can win." Another thing which will not be stressed at this staged drama is that, if left

Development Of Canada Is Shown

Transfer Of British Wealth And Industry To North America Discussed

POSSIBILITIES OF FUTURE EXPLAINED

Development of industry in Canada and the gradual transfer of business from England to its North American possession, until Canada is now the fourth nation in the world in amount of trade, was the subject of an address by Hawthorne Daniel, noted author, before the Executives club at its monthly dinner in The Castleton last evening.

Going back into history, he traced the growth of the British Empire, from a small island nation, until the colonies it controls, and which compose the empire now cover a quarter of the globe, the bulk of which is concentrated in the Pacific and Indian oceans.

Canada Logical Place

With all this, the speaker went on to state Canada is the only logical place in which England, without any natural resources of its own except a small amount of coal and iron of an inferior grade, can turn for industrial expansion. Since the turn of the century, the gradual development of Canada as an industrial area has been taking place. This has been speeded up since the World war. Information which he was shown by Canadian officials last summer revealed that 232 new industries had located in Canada in a four-year period.

Sixty per cent of Canada's imports are from the United States and 40 per cent of her exports come to this nation. Instead of trying to cultivate trade with other countries, the speaker suggested that the American business man could do better by seeking new markets in North America. He stated that trade would undoubtedly be improved between the two nations by removal of tariff barriers.

Canada, at present, has a population of eight million people, but could accommodate 75 millions in the lower part of the country.

Couldn't Be Conquered

The United States and Canada, he stated, were the most fortunate countries in the world. Even with the advancement of aviation, the two nations are so far away from possibility of attack that it would be almost impossible for any invader to conquer them.

Discussing the possibility of Germany's success in the present European war, he stated that the British Empire could transfer the seat of government to Canada and let Germany have the little island off the coast of Europe, which has gradually become worn out. Germany would not want it, if its industry and wealthy were sent somewhere else. The British fleet could be transferred along with the seat of government, and the North American continent would be virtually impregnable to attack.

Japan Impoverished

He went on to state that there were only three active and one potential trouble makers among the nations of the world. Of these, Japan has almost removed itself from the picture because of its war against China, and is almost impoverished. Russia is migrating eastward into Siberia, much like America was developed to the west, for the bulk of Russia's natural resources are in Siberia. Russia needs an open port the year round on the east coast and might eventually go to war with Japan over Manchuria, setting Japan further down the scale, but that Russia had no aims toward the United States and that in time Communism would die a natural death, was the opinion expressed by Mr. Daniel. China is becoming westernized by the invasion of Japan into the interior, and Germany could be permitted to have Europe to rule over with its constantly recurring outbreaks due to racial animosities.

This would result in the further development of North America and its English speaking people into the greatest area in the world, supreme in culture and industry.

When the Roman Empire began to decline, due to the encroachment of the Germans, Constantin removed the seat of goverment from Rome to Byzantine and changed the name of the city to Constantinople, where it endured for several centuries. The same thing could happen if England removed the seat of government to Canada, established a capital like the United States, in a district not a part of any province, and abandoned the British Isles as the center of the empire. Such a move, he felt, would serve to strengthen the empire, rather than weaken it.

Mr. Daniel was introduced by Robert G. Eckles. Prior to the address, a short business session took place, when by-laws for the club were adopted unanimously, and a nominating committee consisting of Filmore Campbell, J. Clyde Gilfillan and Dr. James D. Crawford was appointed by President Walter W. Duff to nominate six candiates, from whom three directors will be chosen during the summer. The club will resume in October, when the speaker will be Dr. James Shelby Thomas, who will speak on the topic, "New Frontiers for Smart People".

free of Roosevelt dictation, the Democratic convention would overwhelmingly nominate Hull. It wouldn't be necessary for Mr. Roosevelt to indicate his preference for him. All he need do is take his hands off.

WAR undoubtedly will heavily color the situation in both conventions this year. War makes it impossible to measure things by the ordinary political yardstick. However, the war should not totally obscure the fact that it is being used to sell the American people a third term, which they do not want. The soundness of the "don't-swap-horses" slogan, as General Johnson points out, depends upon the horse and the stream. It does not sem sensible to argue that a President who has made so vast a mess in the handling of domestic affairs ought to be retained in order to handle foreign affairs in a world crisis. On the contrary, the domestic record would seem the best reason for not doing so.

Grover Bergdoll May Know About Nazi New Weapon

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—Mrs. Berta Bergdoll, wife of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, now serving a prison sentence for World War draft dodging, has written to President Roosevelt that her husband "knows something important" about Germany's reputed new secret war weapon, it was learned today.

Hoping that the information may open the way for a parole or pardon for Bergdoll, Mrs. Bergdoll informed the President that her husband told her about the Nazis' device when she made a trip to his prison quarters in Governor's Island, New York, recently.

"I have talked with my husband yesterday," she wrote, "and he told me he knows something important about the secret cannon the Germans used in Belgium. He wants to tell this to you so you will know he knows what he is talking about, especially a new gun the Germans have."

With the approach of Memorial Day, when tribute is paid by the citizenry to the memory of its war heroes who assisted in establishing and maintaining the security of this nation, it is interesting to note that Lawrence County has contributed its full share in the various wars in which this nation has been involved.

REALTY TRANSFERS

Frank G. Smith to Leslie Mortensen, Ellwood City, $1.

If you don't get your county tax cards quite as soon this year as you did last year, remember that the county treasurer's office has been in a dither for three months with the delinquent tax sales. Usually the cards go out in May. This year it will probably be June.

Another county employe succumbed to Dan Cupid. On Tuesday Deputy County Treasurer, Don Neal said "I do", with Miss Elizabeth Isaac joining him. For the past two weeks the court house prankster, Deputy County Controller Andy Dodds, has been endeavoring to find out when the day would be. He found out, about the time the ceremony was going on.

Now that it is necesary to have a health certificate before you can get a marriage license it might be well enough to know what the costs is going to be. From an investigation we learn that the total cost of a marriage license now will be about $12.50 of which $2.50 is for the license and about $10 for the examination.

The figures quoted on the examination should not be taken as authoritative but are tentative. For the physician's examination the fee will be $3 per person. For the blood examination in a certified laboratory it will be about $2 per person but may run to $5 if it is sent to a laboratory out of the city. Hence the total tentative cost for the examination will be $5 per person or $10 per couple.

Where a person cannot pay for the laboratory examination the physician will send the blood test to the state laboratory and there will be no charge for it. However the state makes no provision for paying the physician where the person cannot pay. If the person is on relief it is assumed that the physician's examination will be classified just as medical attention now is classified for relief recipients.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

On Friday evening, May 10, the Juniors, Seniors, and guests danced under the stars at the annual Junior-Senior Prom. The gym was beautifully decorated with glittering stars to represent the heavens.

Virginia Carr was crowned "Prom Queen" by Tee Ross, the orchestra leader. Her attendants were Betty Hinson, Mary Messinando, June Weitz, and Sauvi Grubisa.

The members of the school board and faculty were special guests.

The general committee included Frank Galletta, Mildred Johnston, and Evelyn Glasgow. Assistants were Helen Montana and Amelia Rossi. Faculty advisers were Miss Patterson and Mrs. Wise.

ASSEMBLY

On Thursday, May 9, the Senior class under the direction of Mr Ross, teacher of Social Studies, presented a mock Democratic convention. Students were organized into state delegations and waved various posters in the air, just as is done at a real convention. To open the proceedings, James Farley made his way through the crowd to the speaker's desk leading the democratic donkey.

After Mr. Farley, Virginia Carr) spoke, the temporary chairman, Mr. Barkley (Bernice Benson), and permanent chairman, Mr. Robinson (Virginia Glass), presented their addresses. The credentials committee was forced to remove Republican Tom Dewey (Bruni Musitano) rather unceremoniously in a wheelbarrow. Much to the surprise of the convention, when the planks of the platform were presented, they actually walked to the stage behind 8-foot boards.

There was some confusion during nominations—Mae West and Charley McCarthy, among others, receiving votes. It finally appeared that Gracie Allen was the favorite candidate for the presidency.

CLASS PARTY

Plans are being completed for a class party to be held by the Freshman and Sophomore classes combined. The party will be held Friday night, May 17, in the gymnasium.

REGISTRATION

Registration for the 1940-41 school term will take place Friday when students will be given the opportunity to sign up for the required and elective courses for the coming year.

Invaders View Belgium Ruins

C. P. Radiophoto

According to the German censor-approved caption, this radiophoto shows "German troops in a Belgian town looking at houses dynamited by retreating Belgians." Bridges and rail lines were blown up by troops of the invaded countries as they sought to halt the German advance.

Safe in London, Dutch Royalty Takes a Stroll

C. P. Radiophoto

Crown Princess Juliana, of the Netherlands, wheels nine-months-old Princess Irene through the streets of London while a Bobby conducts Princess Beatrix, 2. The Dutch royal family, including Queen Wilhelmina, fled to London, reportedly after "fifth column" kidnap threats. Princess Irene made the trip in a gas-proof crib, guarded by consort Prince Bernhard. Photo was flashed by radio from London to New York.

How Luxemburg Was Taken

Nazi War Machine Rolls Into Luxemburg

AS IN 1914—BELGIAN REFUGEES

This picture turns back the pages of history to 1914. It shows Belgian refugees walking down a gangplank "somewhere in England" where they sought haven from the German invaders who have over run their homes. In like manner they or their parents sought refuge from the engulfing armies of the kaiser in 1914.

Neely Leading For Nomination

Has Lead In Race For Democratic Nomination For Governor In West Virginia

SENATOR HOLT APPEARS LOSER

(International News Service)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 15.—United States Sen. M. M. Neely held a 16,000-vote lead for the Democratic party's gubernatorial nomination in the primary election returns today, while his running mate, Judge Harley M. Kilgore, forged ahead in the race for the senatorial nomination.

Former Gov. H. G. Kump led Kilgore from the start in the senatorial contest, but the latter pushed into the lead early this morning when a large vote came in from the southern coal fields. His majority at that time was 3,500.

Holt Is Behind

Both Neely and Kilgore were backed by the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the United Mine Workers of America. United States Sen. Rush D. Holt, seeking re-election, was apparently too far in the rear to stand much of a chance.

Returns from 1,034 of the state's 2,379 precincts showed in the gubernatorial contest: Neely 79,895, Democratic State Chairman R. Carl Andrews, "statehouse" candidate, 62,058. Returns from 956 precincts in the state race showed: Kilgore 48,637, Kump 45,454, Holt 34,179.

Mayor D. Boone Dawson of Charleston appeared to be the winner of the Republican gubernatorial nomination, leading his nearest opponent, Judge Lewis H. Miller of Ripley, by 17,000 votes. State Sen. Thomas B. Sweeney, who garbbed an early lead over three opponents, still held it early today, although former Congressman Carl G. Bachmann was making gains.

The vote in 906 precincts was: Sweeney 29,569, Bachmann 20,155, Judge Decatur H. Rodgers 12,853, former Gov. E. F. Morgan 11,817.

Yesterday's primary culminated a bitter, seven-year-old party feud, so far as the Democrats were concerned.

Italy Mobilizing More Troops, Is Report In Balkans

They added that most of the troops will be concentrated along the French border, and this convinced Yugoslavian authorities that Italian action will be directed only against France.

Authorities reiterated, however, that Yugoslavia stands ready to meet any eventuality.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Nephritis kills more than 100,000 persons each year.

Nephritis is an inflammation of the kidneys.

The chronic type is known as Bright's Disease.

The acute type may come suddenly and cause death quickly.

This type often follows serious infectious diseases.

Each kidney contains clusters of minute blood vessels.

Blood enters these grape-like masses under pressure.

It is filtered through smallest vessels.

Much is re-absorbed into the blood but leaves a residue.

This residue, about 3 pints daily, is known as urine.

When kidneys fail, poisonous waste material accumulates.

Kidney disorder, nephritis, should be diagnosed early.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

ADOLESCENCE

Adolescence is a time of life when young persons go through a great deal of stress and strain and it is a wise parent who prepares himself in advance to help the child go thru this difficult period.

Being the time when the reproductive organs of a male or female begin to develop and mature, physical change in adolescence is rapid. A child may be placid and amiable up to this time of his or her life, and then suddenly become stubborn, rebellious and hard to handle. Some parents get panicky when this happens, because they don't understand it. They think the child is going to the dogs when as a matter of fact the youth's personality is developing without the balancing good judgment and common sense which will appear a little later.

From about the age of seven years a youngster's strength increases rapidly. During his early teens this increase is even more speedy. Children appear awkward and clumsy then because growth is so rapid that they have to learn by experience how much strength and effort must be put into doing things.

As I have said, the whole phenomenon of adolescence centers around the maturing of the reproductive organs. These begin to mature at from twelve to fifteen years in girls and about two years later in boys. Of course, geographical living and physical conditions cause quite a variation in these ages.

Just before this time of life, sometime referred to as the time of puberty, many physical changes take place in the child that signal its coming. Hair begins to grow under the arm pits and in the public regions. The voice becomes fuller and in the boy it is likely to "crack" as it changes to deeper pitch. The girl begins to appear womanly, her breasts develop, her hips broaden; the boy's face shows the first evidence of whiskers, his shoulders get broader and he has a more manly aspect.

With a ll these changes going on in the child's body, it is necessary to give some thought to physical hygeine. Boys will likely show a tremendous increase in appetite. They never seem to get enough to eat, while the girl on the other hand, often becomes finicky and develop a craving for special dishes. The sudden rate in growth will result in more fatigue and a craving for more and more sleep, as the muscles gain in size and strength. Outdoor exercise becomes more desirable. All body activieies are increased during this time and that means that there will be an increase in the body's waste and so good habits of elimination and a good healthy skin condition are very important.

Puberity is really the continuation of a development which began before the child was born, and so there are no special rules of hygiene necessary at this time. But parents must realize that the rules that apply to children become especially important with adolescence.

Prison Statistics Show Marriage Is Crime Deterrent

Only One In Three Committed To Penitentiary Found Married

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Married men have a three to one better chance of keeping out of prison in Pennsylvania than their single brethren, according to State Department of Welfare prison statistics.

Either marriage is more steadying or the strong right arm of the better half a convincing curb, department officials assert.

The Department has compiled information on each of the 2345 new prisoners committed during the past fiscal year to the Eastern and the Western penitentiaries and the Pennsylvania Industrial School at Huntingdon.

Single men numbered 1,731. Those married totaled 516. Widowed, divorced and separated numbered 198 and in 30 cases the marital condition was not stated. Thirty nine percent of this new inmate population had not reached the voting age. Nearly three fourths were under 30.

EMPLOY FEWER MEN IN HIGHWAY WORK

HARRISBURG—There were 3458 fewer employes on the Department of Highways payroll May 1 than a year ago. The salaried personnel showed an increase of 173 over last year while those paid on an hourly basis dropped 3631.

The increase in the salaried staff was made necessary because of the large construction program now under way. On May 1, there were 2567 employes paid on a monthly basis as compared with 2403 a year ago. However, the number of hourly workers declined from 18,099 last year to 14,463 at the beginning of this month.

Builders Have Dinner Party

Mothers And Sons Tureen Dinner Party At Cathedral Tuesday Night

Highlighting the social calendar of the New Castle Chapter 1 of the Order of Builders was the mothers and sons tureen dinner party Tuesday evening, which took place in the west dining hall of the Scottish Rite Cathedral, East Lincoln avenue, which was dedicated to the enjoyment and entertainment of the mothers of members.

At tables, prettily arranged with the lodge streamers, blue and gold, guests numbering 200 were served a tempting menu. Following the group singing of "Blest Be the Tie," Russell C. Minick gave the invocation. Donald M. Hanna capably enacted the role of toastmaster and opened the entertainment with an inspiring "Welcome to the Mothers." Mrs. George D. Morris answered on behalf of the honored guests.

Presentation of the guests ensued: Divisional Deputy Grand Master Builder of western Pennsylvania, Owen G. Thomas; Master Builder, DeWayne S. Gibson; chairman of the Advisory Council of the Chapter, Carl E. Turner; council members, I. Miller Henley, Karl C. Moffatt, Ralph B. Hayes and Loyal J. Foster; and senior past mother advisor and chairman of the Rainbow Advisory Board, Mrs. F. F. Urey, who also introduced each member of her board present.

Mrs. James A. Hewitt, supervisor of the National Youth Administration of Lawrence County, was the special guest speaker and related in a most interesting manner of the present day value of youth organizations and grouping and the value of organizations to youth.

Group singing of appropriate mother's day selections, both current and former days' varieties, followed by a set of three humorous readings by Omar Ray Fink, Jr., concluded the program for the assemblage.

Success of the event is credited to the following committee, Joe Carl Harper, chairman; Mont L. Sweesy, Andrew G. Krestel, L. Alvin Paradise, Edward M. Vandergrift and Robert L. Cleland.

Call Meeting To Discuss War Fund

Red Cross Executive Committee Will Meet With Leading Citizens To Map Plans

HEAR REPORTS ON CONVENTION

After a discussion of the recent request from National Headquarters that the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, raise a fund of $9,000 locally for war relief work, the Executive Committee of the Chapter at its monthly meeting in the Chapter House, Tuesday evening, decided to call a conference of leading citizens of the city to organize a council for the purpose of discussing the matter further. This meeting will take place Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Chapter House.

The aim of the National Red Cross is to raise ten million dollars in the United States creating a fund which will wholly and exclusively be devoted to war relief wherever it is thought advisable to expend it.

Fifteen per cent of the money raised will remain with the Chapter to be used exclusively by the chapter for war relief expenditures, such as the expansion of production work, etc.

The meeting last evening was largely attended. Interesting reports on the National convention at Washington last week were given by members of the Chapter who attended. Rabbi Norman Diamond gave a general report on the convention, while Mrs. L. E. Springer of Ellwood City spoke on the dinner. Miss Thyra Fulton explained the new home service program as mapped out by National headquarters, which will soon be adopted and carried out by the local Chapter.

Historical Society Annual Meeting

Directors Elected At Session At High School On Tuesday Evening

The Lawrence County Historical society, with a membership of one hundred and eighty-one, and which is affiliated with the Pennsylvania Historical society, met Tuesday evening at the high school for the annual session at which time yearly reports of officers and committee chairmen were given, accepted, and filed with the secretary.

Charles H. Young, resident of the society, presented Everett Hoffman, who had drawn an artistic design for the society to use in marking books and periodicals, with Rockwell Kent's book, World Famous Paintings, in appreciation of his skill used for the organization.

A very interesting and instructive report of the Pennsylvania Historical society recently held in Harrisburg was given by Mr. Young. He told that there are now eighty-seven local societies which belong to the state organization. One statement made at this meeting which was articularly significant was that "local history is the basis of all history."

Reports Are Made

The following officers and committee chairmen gave reports: Charles H. Young, board of directors; F. M. Rowland, secretary; Thomas Hartman, treasurer; Miss Alice Sterling, librarian; Ross Rosenberger, necrology; Miss Rose Barber, genealogy; James Chambers, history; E. E. Seavy, pictures, photographs and paintings; and R. L. Hildebrand, relics, curios and antiques.

Plans were discussed concerning the formation of a junior club, with the matter being referred to a committee for consideration.

Fred Sankey explained numerous plans for the memorial to Ira Sankey, which will take place in August.

The board of directors elected for the coming year will in turn elect the officers. The board consists of the following members:

Rev. S. A. Kirkbride, R. L. Hildebrand, James K. Love, Gerald Nord and Marcus Feuchtwanger for one year terms; Mrs. Thomas Gilkey, Alice Sterling, Fred L. Rentz, Fred B. Sankey and Thomas H. Hartman for two-year terms; Margaret Toepfer, Mrs. Effie T. Kirk, F. M. Rowland, John A. Evans, and Charles H. Young for three-year terms.

B'nai B'rith Lodge Takes Active Part In Scout Movement

Jacob Belloff, Committee Chairman Of Troop 12, Makes Drive Plea

ELLWOOD CITY, May 15—Jacob Belloff, chairman of a scout committee of the B'Nai B'Rith lodge, gives the following summary of scouting as a plea for support in the present financial campaign.

"It is our conviction that the Scout movement has a profound influence on boys in developing character, good health and good citizenship, all of which will rebound to the betterment of our community as a whole.

"In the troubled world of today with subversive elements teaching our youth Communism, Nazism and Fascism we feel the best way to combat these ISMS is with the greatest of all ISMS—American-ISM.

"In a broadcast on February 3, President Roosevelt said, "Our Scout movement embraces all sects and creeds and is above all class and sectional consciousness. It is, in a word, democratic and therefore truly American. God grant that it may ever remain so."

"The B'Nai B'Rith Lodge is happy to take an active part in Scouting for Ellwod City. Snce 1938 we have developed an actve troop of 32 nonsectarion boys under the capable leadership of Scoutmaster Joe Metz and his three assistants. Although we have done our utmost to teach these boys the activities listed under the Scout program we have also stressed the importance of being Civic minded, which is a basic principle of Americanism. As an example of their many accomplishments, Troop 12 worked hard at building, repairing and painting toys which they later gave to the less fortunate girls and boys of this community, at the same time aiding in the distribution of food, clothing and toys for Christmas projects.

"The B'Nai B'Rith lodge as local Scouters having assumed the responsibility, understanding and appreciation of the ideals of Scouting, feel we are aiming in the right direction if the boys of Troop 12 will eventually becme real American citizens.

MIGHTY SURGE MADE BY NAZIS AT MEUSE RIVER

considered serious, he said. There the enemy lines of advance were splintered by fierce defense, and speedy counter-attacks hurled most of the advancing hordes back across the river. German bridge-heads of the attack on this salient were disrupted in many places, he added.

Onslaught Launched

The main German onslaught, the spokesman said, was launched after the enemy rushed up heavy material forces through Neufchatel and Boullin, taking Sedan which had been evacuated.

They then continued their advance to the river and with all the materials at their command began one of the deadliest engagements in military history.

The French, he said, are withdrawing slowly but covering their retreat with "terrible losses" inflicted on the enemy while Allied airplanes constantly bomb pontoon bridges and ammunition supplies.

"Ten divisions are engaged in the struggle," he declared.

Hold Some Of Defense System

London, May 15.—German troops which surged across the Meuse river at Sedan are now in possession of portions of France's defense zone it was officially admitted in London today.

There is no question, however, a military spokesman said, of the Maginot line itself having been broken or turned at any point.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Berlin dispatches told of Nazi capture of certain pill-boxes along the outer fringes of the Maginot line with the use of Germany's mystery "immobilizer.")

South of Namur, Bedgium, particularly in the Dinant area, fighting between Allied and German troops has now reached heaviest proportions, the spokesman said.

Situation At Sedan Grave

The situation in the Sedan zone is admittedly grave, now that the Germans have crossed the Meuse and placed themselves in a position to attack the Maginot fortifications.

Along the entire Franco-Belgian front to Namur, the full-scale battle anticipated for the last 24 hours has not yet broken.

The German advance from Sedan into the defensive zone was "successfully held up" in operations yesterday, the spokesman declared. But the situation as it exists today is not fully known in London.

Although the situation is somewhat confused, the Allied left flank was described as resting on Antwerp and Scheldt in Holland, with the province of Zeeland still in Dutch and British hands.

Toward the south, the Allies were said to be holding strong positions, covering repeated German attacks in the regions east of Brussels.

The Nazi assault developing in the Brussels area is heavy in spots, according to the spokesman, but full-scale operations have not yet been launched.

With regard to the German successes, military circles emphasized that although the Maginot line proper ends at the Luxembourg frontier, the remainder running to the sea consists of a well-fortified zone to some depth.

It was conceded that the Germans have made a "dent" in this line but that the defense zone is being held for the time being.

Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association Plans To Stock Bass In Neshanock

Lawrence County Sportsmen's association held their last meeting until fall in the V. F. W. hall last night. During the session it was decided to open night skeet shooting at the Fair grounds Thursday. The range has been fitted with lights of 10,000 watts.

According to President George Sillman, the public is invited to attend the shoot. The shells and targets have been reduced. Free coffee and sandwiches will be served at the club house. The skeet range for night shooting has been installed at considerable expense.

At last night's session Bert Gargacz was paid the bounty for bringing down hawks. He presented four pairs of feet.

Lawrence County Sportsmen's association also decided to purchase 1,600 bass for Big Neshannock creek. The bass will be of legal size and stocked this summer.

Motion pictures were shown. They were some of the best yet displayed here. Actual "shots" of grizzly bears in Alaska, hunting of moose and of the Chetah, the world's fastest animal, which can run 103 feet per second, were shown as were pictures of pheasant and duck hunting.

Sports World Ramblings

Local niblets—Alice Cunningham, 902 Butler avenue, copped a recent district duck pin meet held here. The local kegler put together games of 148, 191 and 193 to forge ahead of the field. Josephine Zeigler, of Fittsburgh, who recently won the Rubber Band Tourney title, was the runner up. Pittsburgh, Aliquippa, Erie, Meadville and New Castle female bowlers competed. . . .

Next Monday's cinder path meet between the Mahoning junior high and George Washington junior high promises to be the hottest athletic thing staged here in sometime. Because of the keen rivalry, several records may go with the wind. The gravel grinding affair is slated for Washington Field. . . .

Of all the local simon-pures, Russell Baxter, the slim blond, seems to have what it takes. His heart is one of his main assets. Clipped on the peak several times by a hard hitting Ohio gladiator, Baxter accepted the blows cooly and kept shuffling in, during last Monday's show. His foe quit in the third, because Russ' sharp left and an occasional right sock, mowed him down to a state of fatigue. With proper handling, the youngster should go farther than quite a few other mitt slingers. . . .

Pot shots from the dugout—Bill McKechnie, pilot of Cincinnati, deserves a medal for the patience and confidence in behalf of Johnny Vander Meer. As every one recalls, Vandy pegged two straight no-hit games. Since then, he pitches, it seems, all hit games. McKechnie tried Vandy again Monday against the Cards. Johnny was in a home run frame of mind, throwing nothing but home run pellets. When he was yanked, in the fourth, the score card showed he had dished out three four-master balls, yielded five walks and clubbed for five bingles. We can't remember when Vandy finished a game, neither can McKechnie or Vandy. . . .

The Pirates seem to have uncovered a diamond in Frank Gustine, the 20-year-old infielder. Up to yesterday, Gustine was shellacking the onion at a better than .370 clip. We're hoping the Bucs don't pull another boner. If our memory is on the right track, the Bucs once had Joe Cronin and turned him loose. . . . 'Buck" Newsom, of Detroit, recently inserted a bit of comedy in a skit which he manufactured at Yankee Stadium. Informed that it was his turn to hurl, the funny producing right-handed Newsom started warming up left-handed as the down hearted Yanks looked on!

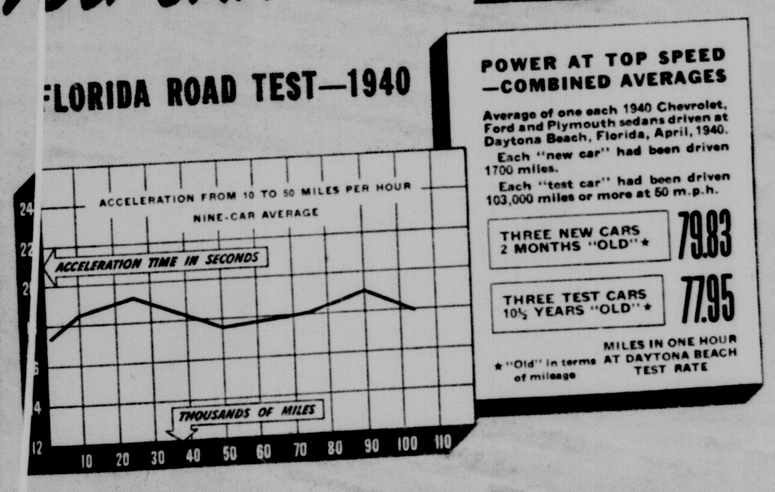
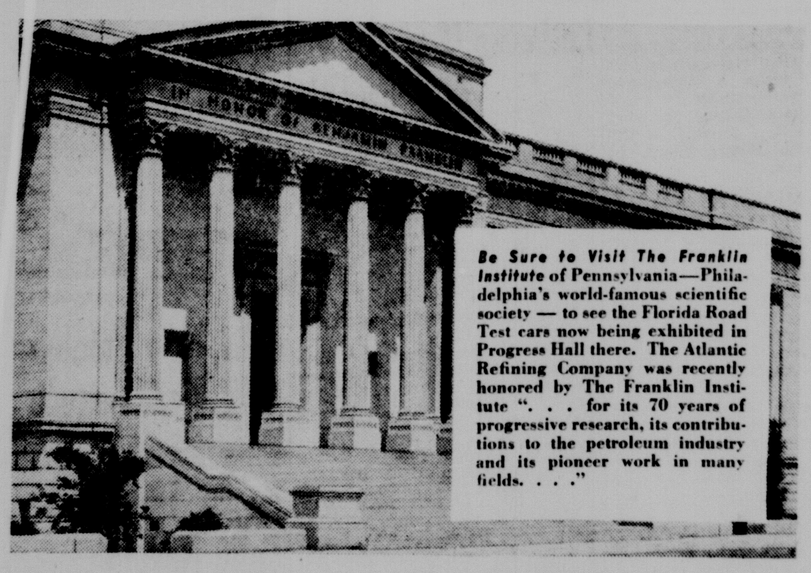
The Famous "Measured Mile" at Daytona Beach was used for maximum speed tests. Three of the Florida Road Test cars were driven there at top speed. So were three new cars, of the same make and model, which had been carefully broken-in. The Florida Road Test cars — after running more than 100,000 miles each on Atlantic Products exclusively — were so "new" that their top average speed was only 2 miles per hour less than that of the others.

YOU CAN BUY THIS GASOLINE ON FACTS



POWER is most urgently desired by the American motoring public. In these two charts, the Florida Road Test results are presented from two power angles — acceleration time and maximum speed. Note that at 100,000 miles, the acceleration time of nine test cars was less than one second longer than when those cars were new!

THIS CHART gives the over-all combined top average speed for three of the Florida Road Test cars which had traveled the equivalent of 10½ years of average driving — and three similar cars which had just been carefully broken-in. The new-car average beat the test-car average by just under 2 miles per hour.



Be Sure to Visit The Franklin Institute of Pennsylvania—Philadelphia's world-famous scientific society — to see the Florida Road Test cars now being exhibited in Progress Hall there. The Atlantic Refining Company was recently honored by The Franklin Institute ". . . for its 70 years of progressive research, its contributions to the petroleum industry and its pioneer work in many fields. . . ."

Do you want POWER?
MILEAGE?
PICK-UP?
ANTI-KNOCK?

YOU don't have to depend on guesswork in choosing the gasoline for your car. Atlantic now comes to you with a wealth of FACTS such as you have never had before.

Facts from the Florida Road Test — where a fleet of low-priced stock cars traveled more than 100,000 miles each — averaging about 1000 miles each daily, at 50 miles per hour — to prove scientifically the performance qualities of Atlantic White Flash PLUS.

In addition, Atlantic White Flash PLUS was tested against 13 other leading gasolines — and none exceeded it in Mileage, Acceleration and Anti-knock performance!

Most remarkable of all, however, Atlantic White Flash PLUS was giving practically new-car performance in all of the Florida Road Test fleet, after each of the cars had passed the 100,000-mile mark — more than 10 years of average driving. Read the fascinating facts below. Then ask yourself if this isn't the kind of evidence on which you want to base your gasoline buying from now on!

FACTS FROM A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

POWER

Three test cars, after running more than 100,000 miles on Atlantic White Flash PLUS exclusively, were so "new" that their average top speed was 78 miles per hour, only 2 miles per hour less than the average top speed of three new cars which had been carefully broken-in.

MILEAGE

After more than 100,000 miles, the cars running on Atlantic White Flash PLUS exclusively were still giving the same economical mileage as when new.

ACCELERATION

After more than 100,000 miles, the cars running on Atlantic White Flash PLUS exclusively required less than one second longer to accelerate from 10 to 50 miles per hour than when the cars began the test.

ANTI-KNOCK

After more than 100,000 miles — without carbon cleaning — cars running on clean-burning Atlantic White Flash PLUS exclusively did not show pronounced knock.

Dodgers Upset Reds In 13th

Furious Battle In Brooklyn As Walters And Carleton Engage Each Other, Both Chased

PIRATES THUMP NEW YORK GIANTS

By PAT ROBINSON
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, May 15.—If a flaming, fighting spirit that acknowledges no master were enough to win a pennant, we could wrap up the National league flag without further ado and hand it to our dashing Dodgers.

Neither the old Orioles of John McGraw's time, the Cubs of Frank Chance's day, or the Cardinals of Frankie Frisch's regime, had anything on Leo Durocher's current band of fire eaters as far as spirit is concerned.

But they have more than mere spirit with which to make a pennant bid as Bill McKechnie ruefully admitted today. "The Dodgers," said the Reds' able pilot, "have good pitching, a great infield and plenty of power and speed. They should be there or thereabouts all year."

Dodgers Finally Win

The Dodgers had to travel 13 heats yesterday to win a game they should have won in nine. But the point is, they won it, despite the let down that usually comes after seeing an opponent tie it up in the ninth and move ahead in the tenth.

Bucky Walters and Tex (no-hit) Carleton hooked up in a corking pitching duel until both made way for pinch-hitters and the Dodgers would have handed Bucky his first defeat were it not for two errors by Pete Coscarart.

After the Reds moved ahead on Mike McCormick's homer off Newt Kimball in the tenth, the Dodgers came right back and tied it up after two were out. Toots Pressnell then came on to stop the Reds cold and the Dodgers battled on until a pass, Durocher's hit and a fly put over the run that gave them a 6-5 decision and first place in the National league.

Pirates Trim Giants

Elbie Fletcher's homer with three Pirates aboard put the skids under Cliff Melton and the Giants, 7-2, and Hugh Mulcahy of the Phillies handed the Cardinals a neat 4 to 0 plastering. The victory put the Phils up directly in back of the Cubs who were rained out in Boston.

Jimmy Foxx's second home run of the game in the tenth—and his eighth of the season—gave the Red Sox a 7-6 decision over the White Sox.

The Red Sox thus picked up another game on the Indians who were knocked off by the jubilant Athletics, 9 to 7. Young Bob (no-hit) Feller took an unmerciful pounding before he was driven to the showers.

The Senators downed the Tigers, 4-2, and the Yanks and Browns were idle in St. Louis.

EXPRESSMEN WIN DRIVING AWARDS

Railway Express Agency Host Sees Five Local Operators Cited

Before more than 40 fellow expressmen from the New Castle district and neighboring towns and cities, five Railway Express Agency truck operators last night at The Castleton received awards for the perfect driving records they have attained through recent years.

Chief award winner was W. J. Hanna, formally recognized for five years of perfect driving. Accidents of the most minor kind will blemish a record, but Hanna has maintained perfection for the five-year period.

J. W. Johnson, Pittsburgh, superintendent of the firm's Pittsburgh-West Virginia division, was present to praise the men. G. H. Carey, auditor at Pittsburgh, presented the awards.

Jesse Ackworth here has driven four years without an accident, Sylvester Rice has driven three, and Arthur Priolettie and Guy E. Jay have not had accidents for two years. They were honored with Hanna.

Manager J. W. Anderson of the local branch, prominent in the award program, said company agents and drivers here from Ellwood City, Beaver Falls, Grove City, Mercer, Greenville, Butler and New Kensington also received awards.

Jean Cameron Is Named Winner of Y. W. C. A. Contest

Her Play, "Happy Days Are Here Again," To Be Presented At Camp Reunion Tonight

Jean Cameron of 5 East Laurel avenue, was named today as winner of the second annual play-writing contest, sponsored by the Girls' Camp committee of the Y. W. C. A.

The contest was open to more than 500 Girl Reserves in this vicinity. Although the plot was left for the writer to decide, it was necessary that the play include certain information about Camp East Brook. Miss Jessie Jenkins, an adviser of the Washington Reserves, was chairman of the judges. Points considered in choosing the best play were: content of required information, technique and dramatic effect.

Jean, a Junior A at the local high school, attends Highland U. P. church and is a member of the Highland King's Daughters, where she took part in a missionary play this past winter. She is a member of Senatus Romanus, the Girls' Athletic club, Civic Music club, and is general chairman of Ne-Ca-Hi's June Festival poster committee. Jean, in collaboration with Trudy Matthews, wrote "The Murder of Pantomime" which was presented for the Girl Reserves two weeks ago.

In line with new ideas that have been developing in Group Work policies, the Girl Reserve movement does not sponsor working towards awards nor the presentation of prizes because discrimination is apt to result, and again, in working for a prize, the prize often overshadows the motivation of the project. Therefore, Jean will receive no award but will receive recognition with the presentation of her play, "Happy Days Are Here Again", at the Camp Reunion in the Y. W. C. A. this evening. Those taking part will be Jean, Helen Hayes, Truly Matthews and Phoebe Mears.

Also, it will possibly be given at Girl Reserve meetings and in a broadcasting project being sponsored by the local agencies that have camps.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Today is the 15th of May . . . now maybe that Doesn't mean a thing to some of you folks but to the majority of the men folks it means that today is the first day that it is permissible to wear a summer straw hat. From now on the straw is the thing . . . the stores will be filled with new styles . . . and some of the more conservative people will dig down through the clothes storage and bring out a straw that was used last year . . . it will have a slightly yellow cast but a straw is a straw. Yes, summer is here to stay . . . have fun folks, have fun.

Because the town is not on daylight savings time doesn't mean that the employees at the court house are not enjoying the advantages of this special time . . . instead of changing their clocks they just get up a little earlier and report to work a half hour ahead of time . . . then when the warm afternoon rolls around they quit a half hour earlier . . . that makes them on an eight to four bases instead of a eight-thirty to four-thirty bases . . . and you would be surprised what a half hour in the afternoon can do for a golf game . . . taking the family out for an airing and the like.

* * *

Now that the magnolia trees are about through blooming we can settle our thoughts on the fruit trees . . . they are just about at their peek .'. . and if you really want to see a beautiful tree . . . hunt up a flowering cherry tree . . . several such trees are about town . . . our big boss has three in front of his house on Edison avenue . . . nature is sure wonderful and all through the summer she has something worthwhile to show . . . keep your eyes open and enjoy life as it should be enjoyed.

And how are you coming along with your dog . . . in case you would like to have one here are a couple you might look at . . . Call 1837-M . . . a small brown and white dog . . . and it can be very nice for a small boy or girl. It has short hair.
Carlson on the Princeton road has a large dog that he would like to find a home for. For those who love large dogs this is just the dog.

Market Turns Around Sharply Today After Yesterday's Slump

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, May 15.—The stock market turned around sharply today after breaking 1 to more than 4 points at the start in an extension of the collapse of the two preceding sessions.

Leaders bounded upward 1 to 7 points on a wide front until the forward progress was stalled at the end of the first hour by moderate selling from impaired margin accounts.

Trading continued spectacular, with the ticker falling 8 minutes behind at one time. Sales for the initial hour jumped to 1,540,000 shares, largest for the period since Sept. 5, 1939.

Typical of the wide swings in the stock market were the gyrations of several blue-chips. American Telephone, which cracked 11 points yesterday, was off 4½ on a late opening, then snapped back for a gain of 2 before easing to last night's close.

DuPont, weakest spot Tuesday on a tumble of 19¼, lost 1½ at today's opening, but quickly jumped 7 points above the previous finish. Part of the gain was lost in the second hour.

U. S. Steel rose over 2 after being down more than a point. Bethlehem was higher from the start, gaining better than 4 at one time.

Among other larger gainers were Youngstown Sheet & Tube, better than 3, Chrysler and General

COLUMBUS, O., May 15.—The GOP presidential stock of Ohio's governor, John W. Bricker, a dark horse possibility, rose to new heights today as incomplete returns from the Ohio primary showed Bricker out-polling the Ohio favorite son Republican presidential candidate, U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Although unopposed for re-nomination, Governor Bricker polled 230,984 votes in returns from 3,921 precincts. Senator Taft, the only candidate on either ticket entered in the presidential preference race, polled 194,775 votes in the same precincts.

Running at the head of the Taft delegate-at-large slate, Bricker rolled up 189,347 votes in those precincts, to 78,506 for Joseph Bowman, who headed the Democratic delegate-at-large slate pledged nominally to National Committeeman Charles Sawyer for president, but actually committed to re-nomination of President Roosevelt.

Taft And Roosevelt

The entire Ohio delegation will be pledged to Senator Taft and the entire Democratic delegation to President Roosevelt, through National Committeeman Charles Sawyer, as stalking horse. No opposition delegate slates were entered in the primary.

Governor Bricker, unopposed for re-nomination, will be opposed in the November election by former Gov. Martin L. Davey, who far outdistances a field of seven to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

With but slightly more than a fourth of the state's 8624 precincts tabulated, the Republican U. S. senatorial contest between Mayor Harold Burton of Cleveland and Congressman Dudley A. White, of Norwalk, still was in doubt. White was leading by fewer than 5,000 votes.

The winner will be opposed in November for the senate seat now held by Sen. Vic Donahey (D) who did not seek re-nomination, by former Congressman John McSweeney. Wooster. McSweeney easily outdistanced the Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, Cincinnati, author of the rejected "$50 at 60" old age pension plan, for the Democratic nomination.
